On Monday, Bragg said he was killed by Kansas coach Bill Self, also known as Coach S. Dwayne "Coach K." The New York Knicks star was cut from the team during his freshman season for refusing to follow rules. "I'm being murdered by a man that has power," Bragg told the New York Daily News. "He's the Supreme Governor. He's the God in my eyes." KU coach Bill Self also known as "Coach K." Bragg accused Self of "practicing fraud" and called KU "the Dark Ages" in a Tumblr post that has been shared more than 32,000 times. KU spokesman Jim Clark said the school has no comment. "We've been responding to Mr. Bragg for some time as he escalated his accusations that we have mistreated him or have anything to do with what happened to him at Kansas," Clark said. "We've tried to give him a legitimate process, but Mr. Bragg has declined to accept a fair hearing. The school has acted in the best interest of the student. This is a student who has become nationally known and his attention is damaging to KU's academic reputation." Bragg's father said the NCAA will get involved in the case. "This is the second attack that we have had on my son," Jesse Bragg said. "I'm going to sue every freaking one of those people."-B23]<sup> this study suggests that both pre-existing and acquired risk</sup> factors have important individual effects on seroconversion, showing the importance of longitudinal studies of HIV infection to determine the independent effects of each risk factor. Our study also demonstrates that there are periods in time following seroconversion when several individuals contribute independently to the increase in the global risk of infection. Clearly, this type of analysis cannot be achieved through cross-sectional observational studies. In our study, the period 50b96ab0b6
